Metegridy Announces the Kick Off of its 18th User Conference!

Edmonton, Alberta.
October 30, 2018 | Metegridy, a global leader in software for construction quality and plant/facility asset integrity management, today announced the kickoff of their 18th User's Conference. The event will take place in Las Vegas, Nevada from March 4-6, 2019. It will be Metegridy's largest educational and networking event to date. It is a three-day gathering for owner operators, clients, and industry professionals. At the conference, Metegridy will unveil their new product lineup and solutions to help operators digitalize their assets, enhance processes, and gain actionable intelligence from their data.

The event has been designed to benefit Metegridy customers, partners, and interested prospects alike. With speakers ranging from thought leaders in the sector to system users, the conference provides an ideal platform to learn best practices, discover the latest technologies, and implement digitalization – capitalizing on the Internet of Things to maximize profitability. It is the ideal destination to explore firsthand the latest technologies in data and integrity management for plants, pipelines, and facilities.

“We are thrilled to unveil our new mobile technologies,” said Adrian Met, CEO of Metegridy. “We have designed next generation tools that align with our clients’ needs for digital data and business intelligence.”
